

CAMP GOOD WILL NEEDS GOOD COW

Supply of Pure Milk Not Sufficient to Meet Demands of Little Ones.

BABIES MUST HAVE MILK

Popular Rock Creek Park Outing Grounds Entertaining Sixty Guests. Funds Received for the Camp.

"Another cow for Camp Good Will"—This is the call which is being echoed at every meal eaten in the big dining tent at this popular summer outing center. There are now sixty children and mothers at the camp, selected very carefully from among the needy vacation, change, and building up made possible on this hill in Rock Creek Park. The party will be increased next Wednesday to 100, and it is expected that this will be the number in constant attendance from that time until about the second week in September.

Milk Must Be the Best.

It is important that the food given these children, most of whom have been undernourished, should be of the best quality and sufficient in quantity. Milk, should flow freely in such a place as this—if possible it should be given to the youngsters three times a day. There are at present three cows to supply Camp Good Will with milk. This small herd, the committee explains, should be augmented and the children enabled to drink this most healthful beverage, not once a day in limited quantities, but three times a day, and as much as is desired. Suggestions as to increased milk supply may be addressed to John Jay Edson, chairman of the summer outings committee, Washington Loan and Trust Company, city.

NEW BUILDING LAW NOW IN OPERATION

Bids Being Solicited for Public Structure Operations Under Omnibus Requirements.

The office of the supervising architect of the Treasury is busily engaged in putting into effect the omnibus public building law recently passed by Congress. Advertisements are being sent out at the rate of twenty or twenty-five a day asking for bids on sites for the public buildings authorized.

In those cases where sites have already been secured, and appropriation has been made for the erection of a building, the office is preparing the necessary plans.

DESERTED SWEETHEART WITH BRIDAL OUTFIT

Girl Promptly Sues Faithless Lover for $20,000 in Breach of Promise.

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—Jilted after her tressure was purchased and the invitations to her wedding issued, Miss May Bowie was highly incensed—so much so that she brought suit yesterday for $20,000 damages against young Calvin Kline, a scaffold builder, who lives at 224 North Van Pet street. Miss Bowie, an unusually pretty girl, lives at 2318 North Sydenham street. She says she met Kline in December of 1904, and that he immediately began to pay timid, bashful court to her. He was then only twenty-two years old, and lacked experience in the art of "rushing the girls." But he was an apt learner, and soon became bold to the proposing point. Their engagement was formally announced last March, and Miss Bowie had even procured the marriage license at Kline's request. She says that he offers no excuse for his failure to keep his contract.

G. A. R. WANT WIVES ADMITTED TO HOMES

Illinois Encampment Petition Legislature to Throw Open Soldiers' Home to Wives of Inmates.

GALESBURG, Ill., July 7.—The Illinois encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic unanimously adopted a resolution asking the Legislature to amend the law so that wives can be admitted to the Soldiers' Home at Quincy with their husbands, and so that the State will bear the expense of the department's printing. A committee of seven was appointed to present these matters to the Legislature.

TOO MUCH JOY.

PLANS TO POPULARIZE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD

Expurgated Edition of Great White Elephant May Be Sold at Prices Which Will Cause a Boom.

"Here's your Congressional Record; only authorized, expurgated and chastened edition of the doings of Congress; i.e., official denials of all the facts. Only 1 cent."

That's the next thing in newsboy spouts. We'll hear it next winter, if the plan of having the sacred old white elephant published for popular circulation at popular prices is carried out. Indications are that it will be. Just before the end of the session the Senate passed a resolution to have an inquiry made as to the expense and possible returns from a cheap issue of the Record, to be sold by subscription. Report will be made on the matter when Congress meets again, and there is a lot of wonderment as to what will be done to the venerable document. One suggestion has been that it be irrigated. Another, that speeches be printed just as they are made instead of being edited by their makers and toned down to the point of polite inanity. Suggestions about headlines and pictures are treated with quiet contempt. Just how to popularize the Record without making it any less the Record is a large problem.

25,000 Copies Now Issued.

About 25,000 copies of the precious publication are now issued daily. A large proportion of them go to waste, but it is believed if they were sold they would be better appreciated. Nobody cares much for even a good thing that can be had for the asking. There is quite a strong feeling that a considerable demand would develop for a popular version of Congress' doings at moderate rates, strictly cash in advance.

BOTH ARMS FROZEN WITH MERCURY AT 90

Brewery Worker, Immersed in Cooling Mixture While Repairing Ammonia Tank, May Lose Members.

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—While the thermometer simmered near 90 degrees, William McMonigle had the novel and painful experience of seeing his arms frozen stiff. His face was severely frost-bitten.

McMonigle works in the plant of the Consumers' Brewing Company, on Fourth street, below Poplar. He was repairing a leak in the "brine" tank, in which beer is cooled, when a valve opened and a few hundred gallons of the ammonia mixture poured over him.

On the same principle as that by which cream is congealed in an ice cream freezer, the rapid evaporation of the brine drew the heat from his arms, freezing them into solid sticks. He tried to extricate himself, but could not. He finally cried out, and fellow-workmen turned off the stream. McMonigle was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, where the surgeons say that amputation of both arms may be necessary.

COMFORT AND RELIGION.

A Billville letter, from which we are permitted to use the following, reads: "John, old feller, this is to let you know that your uncle is in jail, and wants you to send him his fiddle, his slippers, a jug of the kind of corn licker he likes best, and a hymn book with the hymns he knows in it, so's he won't lose his religion in them ungodly surroundings."—Atlanta Constitution.

SANE MAN WAS SENT TO AN INSANE ASYLUM

Prominent Wisconsin Real Estate Broker Railroaded to Mad House on Trivial Pretext.

MADISON, Wis., July 7.—A strange case in a successful effort to have a sane man committed to a Wisconsin asylum for the insane was heard in the Dane county court. The principal was E. H. Ryman, aged forty years, who was ordered discharged from the asylum immediately at the conclusion of the hearing.

The testimony in the court today showed that on returning home from a business trip several weeks ago his eight-year-old daughter complained to him that a neighbor's young boy had thrown sand into her hair. A little while later the girl complained that the boy had again thrown sand into her hair. This aroused the ire of Ryman, and, going into the yard, he caught the youngster and administered a sound spanking to him.

The boy went home crying. Shortly afterward the grandfather of the youngster complained to the authorities that Ryman was a dangerous man to be allowed at large and asked that he be sent to an insane asylum. Ryman was in the asylum nineteen days. Mrs. Ryman engaged the services of Dr. Clarke Gape, a well-known alienist, to examine Ryman for his sanity.

"Political cards doubtless would be inserted. It would be just the place to advertise for lost States and stolen nominations. 'Reputations repaired; broken pledges restored without pain or inconvenience,' who in politics could be able to resist such allurement if properly displayed next to full reading matter? It's a great scheme, and is not entitled to be made the object of such cheap humor as that of a member who proposed changing its name to, 'The "Muck-Rakers" Mutual Magazine."

MACKAY'S OLD PARTNER BANKRUPT FOR $50,000

William Lyle, Also Associated with James L. and James C. Flood, Has No Assessable Property.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—William S. Lyle, one-time business associate of James L. Flood, of the late James C. Flood, and of the late John W. Mackay, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States district court yesterday. Lyle's debts amount to $50,000 and are made up of two promissory notes, one to James L. Flood for $35,000, without interest, the money being advanced by James C. Flood, and the other to James L. Flood and John W. Mackay for $22,000, with interest at 6 per cent. The interest owing brings this account up to $25,000 also.

Both notes were for joint stock enterprises. The petitioner has no assessable property.

USE FOR KOREAN WALLS.

The wall which runs around Seoul serves no useful purpose whatever; in fact, by restricting traffic between the city and suburbs to a few narrow gates, it is a great nuisance. There are enough stones in the wall to reconstruct the greater part of the drainage in the city, and with little leveling the banks upon which the wall is built would make admirable building sites, and the money obtained from them would go a long way toward the cost of city improvements.—Seoul Daily News.

SAW WASHINGTON AND HIS TROOPS

Negro-Indian Woman Says She Has Lived 140 Years.

CLINTON, Iowa, July 7.—Mrs. Abbie Perham, of this city, in whose veins courses the blood of three races, the white, black, and red, is beyond doubt the oldest woman in Iowa; and if her story, which cannot be substantiated, but which is borne out by appearance, is true, she is probably the oldest woman in the world. Mrs. Perham asserts that as a girl of sixteen she saw General Washington and his troops pass her father's cabin, and British soldiers in endless number march by. She believes she is 140 years old, but has lost the records of her birth these many decades. Her father was a half-breed Creek Indian named Isaac Pryor, and her mother was a full-blooded negro woman. The family lived in the South, near historic old Tusculum, Ala., where Mrs. Perham spent her girlhood days. There were five children, and these, with the mother, Mrs. Perham says, were seized by the whites and taken into slavery, while the husband and father was engaged in fighting Indians in one of the early Indian wars in that region. The mother died soon afterward, and the children never saw their father again. She lived in various Iowa cities for years, the largest period at Keokuk, and came to Clinton thirteen years ago. Her husband, whom she married after coming to Clinton, has no knowledge of his own age, but must be half a century younger than the aged negro, if her theories are correct. Mrs. Perham is nearly blind, but her other senses seem acute. Her face, though strongly suggestive of the negro, nevertheless has the high cheek bones of the Indian and a peculiar copper tinge, showing through the dusky negro skin.

AUTO AFIRE, GIRL STUCK, HELPED FIGHT FLAMES

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 7.—Miss Sargent, of Philadelphia, who was riding in a big automobile driven by Hugh Wilson, of Philadelphia, when the machine caught fire on the Meadows boulevard, pluckily stuck to the machine when other motorists refused to give assistance. The blaze started from a leak in the tanks and Wilson put on all speed to reach a sand pile for material to smother the flames. Other drivers feared an explosion and the speedway was in a panic. Wilson and his far companion succeeded in smothering the fire. Wilson was badly burned. The car was ruined.
